B. When I let myself think about last summer's pie-eating contest, I can almost hear the crowd chanting my name. I remember the moment that the judge, Miss Park, clicked the button to stop her watch. My face was planted in a banana cream pie. But I walked away from the contest without a prize. I was one second behind my competitor; I hadn't been fast enough. Later, I asked myself why I thought entering the contest was such a good idea. I had to eat far too much pie in too short a time, and I felt really sick afterward. Still, it was fun to hear people cheering me on, even though I came in second.
